Mr. Evans founded his first sizable Company in the early-90's during the early days of telecom deregulation. Mr. Evans developed and operated one of the largest Companies of the time. After selling Telecom Global to an investment group, Mr. Evans then developed his second major successful company, Global Vision, greatly advancing the International calling marketplace — Once again pioneering a new innovative marketplace Global Vision quickly drove billing revenues to over $10 million a month — A monumental feat at this time in early deregulation.

From there, Mr. Evans seeing what most didn't, developed one of the first private label Internet Service Providers in the Country (with those first dial-up modem speeds at just 16kps) and was even a consultant expert to AOL and EarthLink (among many others) — His Company created customized and private-label branded DSL, Cable, and Satellite ISPs for our Military, Religious Benefactors, and many other large organizations across the U.S.

As technology progressed and developed so did Mr. Evans — With ongoing successes in telephony, International long distance, as a nationwide Internet Service Provider with Dialup, DSL, Cable, and Satellite ... Mr. Evans expanded into VoIP services, Wi-Fi, and his team is considered one of the foremost pioneering factors in the birth of what we know today as 'Wi-Max' technologies. In fact, along with his partners, Mr. Evans team developed some of the very first Wi-Fi hot-spots well over a decade ago — So early in the technologies infancy, it didn't even have the 'Wi-Fi' name at that time, which had our team educating the FCC Chairman at that time on exactly what this new technologies possibilities could be. These early accomplishment provided his team the honor of consulting Wal-Mart in their quest to develop their nationwide wireless strategies.

With his diverse and successful business entrepreneurial background, Mr. Evans also manages a successful Consulting Business helping Companies, startups to successful, expand and grow their businesses. Mr. Evans catalog of experience and accomplishments are wide and deep, covering literally hundreds of skilled areas.
